Basketball is played according to 3 fundamental rules.

No physical contact: any contact between two opposing players leads to a sanction. A player must not block, hold, push, charge, hook an opponent.

You must not make more than 2 steps with the ball in your possession without dribbling: holding the ball with both hands is very limited, which has the effect of accelerating decision-making in attack.

You cannot dribble again once it has stopped: the player's choices are then reduced to shooting a basket or passing the ball to a partner.
